this is the first full length study of sentential negation phenomena in french paul rowlett assesses from a generative perspective the respective contribution made to the expression of clausal polarity by ne pas and elements such as jamais and personne his conclusions have far reaching implications leading to the controversial hypothesis that despite widespread belief french is not a negative concord language despite intensive research negation remains elusive its expression across languages its underlying cognitive mechanisms its development across time and related phenomena such as negative polarity and negative concord leave many unresolved issues of both a definitional and a substantive nature such issues are at the heart of the present volume which presents a twofold contribution the first part offers a mix of large scale typological surveys and in depth investigation of the evolution of negation in individual languages and language families that have not frequently been studied from this point of view such as chinese berber quechua and austronesian languages the second part centers on french a language whose early stages are comparatively richly documented and which therefore provides an important test case for hypotheses about the diachrony of negative marking representing moreover a variety of theoretical approaches the volume will be of interest to researchers on negation language change and typology this study in cross linguistic semantics deploys the framework of bi directional optimality theory to develop a typology of the relationship between syntax and semantics in negation markers and negation indefinites in the last decade there has been a revival of interest regarding negation and polarity with much cross fertilization between semantic and syntactic approaches the papers in the present volume address key issues regarding the syntax and semantics of negation and polarity including both synchronic and diachronic perspectives central to the discussions are the distribution of negative markers and the structure of the clause negative concord phenomena licensing of polarity items similarities between neg movement and wh movement the papers by main contributors to the field reflect different theoretical frameworks including principles and parameters and minimalist approaches head driven phrase structure grammar formal semantics or approaches interested in pragmatics the volume is of interest to syntacticians semanticists historical linguists typologists and philosophers ce livre constitue un ensemble d'essais critiques qui s'efforce de dépasser les distinctions traditionnelles de genre de période de mouvement ou même d'approche théorique relatives à la littérature il aborde en effet autant la poésie moderne que le roman dit réaliste le nouveau roman et le théâtre classique pourtant une tension commune anime ces textes critiques il s'agit en chaque occasion de souligner la part d'incertitude qui accompagne toute entreprise créatrice et particulièrement celle qui mène à l'accomplissement d'une oeuvre littéraire
